Democratic Post-Debate Survey September 13-16, 2019

Overview

This report contains the results of a Civiqs re-interview survey of 1291 likely Democratic primary and caucus voters in the United States from September 13-16, 2019. All of the respondents had previously answered an identical pre-debate survey from September 10-12, 2019. The pre-debate sample size was 1784, for a re-interview rate of 72%. The survey was conducted online, among selected members of the Civiqs research panel. Sampled individuals were emailed by Civiqs and responded using a personalized link to the survey at civiqs.com.

Respondents were asked an intial screening question: "Are you planning to vote in your state's 2020 Democratic primary election or caucus for President?" and are screened out if they did not respond "Yes, I am planning to vote". Respondents are also excluded if on questions 2, 3, or 4, they selected "I will not vote in the Democratic primary".

The survey results are weighted by age, race, gender, education, and party identification to be representative of the population of likely Democratic primary and caucus voters in the United States.

In addition, the results are also weighted to the responses to the Democratic nominee question (question 2) in the pre-debate survey. This was designed to correct for potential effects of differential non-response, if supporters of a particular candidate in the pre-debate survey responded at systematically lower or higher rates to the post-debate survey.

Demographic data, including self-reported party identification, was collected in previous Civiqs surveys. The general design effect due to weighting is 1.3. The survey has a margin of error of $\pm 3.1\%$ at the 95% confidence level, accounting for the design effect. All survey results in this report are rounded to the nearest percentage.

5. In choosing a Democratic candidate for president, how important to you is their chance of defeating Donald Trump -- sometimes called their 'electability'?

(Electability is very important to me: I will support the Democratic candidate who I think has the best chance to defeat Trump, even if we don't agree on the issues/Electability is somewhat important to me: I am considering how much I like each Democratic candidate, and also how likely the candidate is to beat Trump/Electability is not very important to me: I will support the Democratic candidate who I like and agree with the most/Unsure)
