

DATA FOR PROGRESS

From January 9 to January 10, 2021, Data for Progress conducted a survey of 1129 likely voters nationally using web panel respondents. The sample was weighted to be representative of likely voters by age, gender, education, race, and voting history. The survey was conducted in English. The margin of error is ± 2.9 percentage points.

NB: subgroups with a n-size less than 50 (<50) are not shown on these cross-tabs. We choose not to display N<50 subgroups because the sample is too small to have statistical significance. We did, however, take samples of these subgroups for representational and weighting purposes to accurately reflect the electorate makeup. Some values may not add up to 100 due to rounding.

[1] As part of the government's coronavirus relief package, workers typically not eligible for unemployment benefits such as gig workers (like Uber drivers) and individual contractors became eligible for unemployment benefits. Would you support or oppose reforming the unemployment benefits system so that these workers can be permanently eligible for unemployment benefits, even after the coronavirus pandemic is over?
